
ABSTRACT

Jeri Liwinda Sari (09410116) The Relationship Religiosity toward Decision Making on Choosing a Life Partner in the Psychology Colledge of Islamic State University of Maulana Malik Ibrahim Malang. Thesis. Psychology Faculty. The Islamic State University of Malang. 2014

Advisor : H. Aris Yuana Yusuf, Lc. MA

Key words : Religiosity, Decision Making on Choosing a Life Partner

One of the developmental tasks in early adulthood is choosing a life partner, adulthood has the potential to build a relationship with the opposite sex or marriage. It is usually much more experienced by women. They will start anxious when the third-year college but have not had a partner who would be a candidate for a life partner.

This research to find out about the selection of a life partner who is associated with the level of religiosity.

This research is correlative quantitative. The data collected using a questionnaire that is used directly and closed. The samples that used 33 colledge of psychology The Islamic State of Maulana Malik Ibrahim Malang.

Based on the research that has been done, used product moment correlation. The researcher correlate religiosity with aspects in choosing a life partner is religious, physical, science, treasure and psychological. Of the fifth aspect, the level of religiosity showed correlation with the psychological aspects of $r = 0.464$.